President C. E. Todd.

President Charles E. Todd of the Due West Female College was in town last Saturday, looking after the interests of the College, and in preparation for the imposing commence-ment services which take place today. Mr. Todd is a president conscipations worker and ment services which take place today. Mr. Todd is a practical, conscientious worker, and his labors are effective for good with his fellow-man. Whether in official or private life Mr. Todd's personality always impresses for good those who come in contact with him. A modest, unassuming Christian, he labors laithfully for those who need his services, while trying to serve his Lord and Master.

New Candidates.

We add to the list of candidates this week the name of Mr. G. H. Moore, who is in the race for Sherift, and would like to have the favorable consideration of the readers of the Press and Banner.

The name of Hon. J. W. Bowden. of Anderson, is presented to the readers of the Press and Banner as a candidate for Congress from this Congrissional district, and he will enliven the campaign by some red hot speeches. Up to this time Mr. Bowden is the only candidate in the race, but we presume others will contend for the prize.

Missed a Pleasant Caller.

Col. Henry D. Capers of Anderson, S. C. called one day last week to pay his respects to the Press and Banner, and the editor regrets his absence at the time. Colonet Capers was on his way to Cokesbury to deliver an address to the people of 'Auburn, loveliest village of the plain." Colonel Capers is one of the most cultured gentlemen of Anderson, and is held in the highest esteem by all who know him, whether they live in Andsrson, Abbeville or elsewhere.

WOOD FRAMES DEAD.

Ode to Kerr's All-Steel Spring. Dear Buyer, list to what we say, Nor tare your patient ear away, Hear well (and profit while you may) Our simple song of all-steel springs, whereon to lay.

Our all-steel beds are known so well
There's little new for us to tell.
While others "stick," these always sell,
And hence we chant of wood frame springs
the sad death-knell.

This cleanest, lightest, strongest spring, As brilliant black as raven's wing, Sweet balmy sleep to eyelids bring, And thus the death of wood frame springs we loudly sing.

The wearied one, with o'er-wrought brainin loudest strain.

No bloody-minded insect dread Can flourish on this perfect bed, Not even one from foot to head. This fact alone should class the wood-frames with the dead.

Conclusion (au Naturel.) In slumber deep, or quiet doze, Buys all-steel springs, and only those Of Kerr's make—wood-frames are dead, the whole world knows.
